ater, it being Rachel Crothers' western adomestic drama, "The Three of Us," which is given a capital presentation by the Poli Players. There are four acts, which are finely staged under the direction of Harry Sedley. A much smaller company presents this play than was on the boards last week.

Rye Macchesney is the role played by Victoria Montgomery, and interesting motto cards with her autograph were presented to the adles Monday afternoon. She plays the role with clever understanding, and called forth much sympathy and applause. As the brothers, Sue Fisher and Farrell Mc-Knight are both excellent, the former taking the part of the younger brother. The latter, as the clder brother, played with his customary ability and won much favor.

There is a good bit of work done by Robert LeSueur as Stephen Townley, the successful lover, while S. F. Cairns as Louis Beresford is thoroughly at home in that role. As a young man of spirit and life his impersonation is thoroughy good, though the poor metives which crop out in his attitude to the girl and her brother turn the flood of sympathy to Townley. As Mr. and Mrs. Box, Laurence Dumbar and Virginia Chauvenet are well selected, and their work pleases. J. A. Robb and J. H. Booth please in their parts, while Emma Hayner as the maid of all work at the Macchesney home is excellent. Between the acts there are interesting moving pictures which entertain, while the orchestra has a programme which meets much favor.

Mrs. Edwin B. Miner.

The funeral of Mrs. Edwin B. Miner was held from her late home, No. 58
Oak street, Monday afternoon, and many relatives were in attendance. A prayer service was conducted at the house by Rev. P. C. Wright and was followed by a public service at the Eushnell chapel of the Central Baptist church, Rev. Mr. Wright officiating. He spoke in the highest terms of the noble life of the deceased and of her influence for good in the community. Some Time We'll Understand and One Sweetly Solemn Thought were rendered by James L. Case, George A. Turner, Mrs. Nelson T. Crowell and Mrs. William G. Haselden. There was a large attendance at the church services. The bearers were William C., Theodore and Hiram Beckwith, Harry Hanks, D. C. Peek and Edward Rice. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, where a committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Wright. Church & Allen had charge of the arrangements.

Making Excellent Record in Schelar-ship and Athletics.

Numerous local friends of Harry Schulman, a Broadway echool graduate and former Academy boy, will be pleased to leasn of the fine record he is making while attending Doane academy, the preparatory school connected with Denison university at Granville. Ohio. He is to be valedictorian of his class at Doane in June, and has made class of the university while still in the senior class at the academy. Through winning the valedictory he attains membership in Alpha Delta Tau.

Young Schulman is working his way Through college, but with all his work and creditable study has found some time to devote to athletics, winning a place in every long distance running event in which he has competed. Mrs. Edwin B. Miner.
